Miss Osborne's Patch.

Miss Lucy A. Osborne, of New Milford, whose scalp, right ear, and part of the right cheek were torn off in September, 1874, by machinery in which her hair caught, and who has since been at a New York hospital, is now at home. A new scalp has grown upon her head by the grafting of minute bits of skin. The pieces were contributed from the arms of the hospital surgeons. The total number of pieces used in this operation was 12,000. One of the surgeons contributed from his person 1,102 pieces, and another gave 865. The appearance of the scalp now is similar to that of a healed wound. Of course, there can be no growth of hair thereon. The eyes still present a slightly drawn appearance. The wounds of the cheek and ear have been neatly dressed—the former leaving scarcely a scar. In the first of the grafting process bits of skin the size of nickel pieces were employed, but not with good success, and, at the suggestion of an English surgeon, much smaller pieces were substituted, and with excellent results. Miss Osborne is now 22 years old.—Hartford (Ct.) Current.

For His Wife's Sake.

A Newark bachelor dropped in, the other evening, to see a married friend whose wife was absent from home on a prolonged visit. He found him smoking desperately at a cigar nearly a foot long. "Why," asked he, breathlessly, "where on earth did you get such a preposterous cigar as that, Charley?" "Had it built by contract," was the response. "You see," continued the smoker, "I promised my wife before she went away, that I wouldn't smoke more than six cigars a day. Promises to a wife are sacred, you know, and I mean to keep mine if I have to get cigars as long as a lamp-post."—Newark Call.

The great art of conversation consists in not wounding or humiliating any one, in speaking only of things that we know, in conversing with others only on subjects which may be of interest to them.

Mind what you run after. Never be contented with a bubble that will burst, nor with a fire-work that will end in smoke and darkness. Get that which is worth keeping, and that you can keep.

WHAT THE GENERAL SAID!

A noted General being asked by some of his friends how he liked Texas, replied, "If I was obliged to choose between Holl and Texas, I would choose the former." The above saying is verified every day by parties moving from the North, East and South, and as they cannot decide exactly as to the existence of the former, they certainly avoid Texas, and like sensible, industrious people, seek a productive country, such as Missouri, Kansas, Colorado, Nebraska and the Far West. Reader, are you contemplating a trip to enrich a country on business or pleasure? If so, select the line having the least change of cars and best accommodations. The Old Reliable Hannibal & St. Joseph R. R. (the Pioneer line west of the Mississippi River) offers you through Day Coaches and Pullman Palace sleeping Cars from Chicago, Ill., Toledo, Ohio, and Indianapolis, Indiana, to the Missouri River without change. Tourist and land-seeker's round trip excursion tickets on sale by this popular route at all Eastern Ticket Offices. THE GRAND REUNION.

15,000 Soldiers and Spectators on the Fair Grounds.

ADDRESSES BY GEN. PALMER, OGLESBY AND SMITH.

ATTACK ON THE COMMISSARY DEPARTMENT.

DISTRESSING ACCIDENTS AND CLOSING SCENES.

"The soldiers' reunion is a thing of the past. The survivors of three wars met each other, kept time to spiritual music, partaken of Decatur's hospitalities, listened to stirring addresses from their old war-worn generals, heard the roar of the cannon, gazed upon the battle flags and relics, related to each other reminiscences of the days of the country's peril, incidents of camp and bivouac life, joined in the grand chorus of the 'Red, White and Blue,' broke ranks, and departed for home, to participate again, and, we hope, as long as they shall live, in the peaceful pursuits of private life.

The Republican went to press yesterday as the procession was moving. The entire column marched to the depot and met the Springfield delegation composed of seventy veterans and the following distinguished gentlemen: Gen. J. M. Palmer, Adj. Gen. Hilliard, Major A. J. Roberts, Col. Mather and Capt. Hamlin. They were met by the reception committee and occupied carriages in the procession at the grounds.

On arriving at the fair grounds, the old encampment of the 116th, the order was given to break ranks, and, on behalf of the citizens of Decatur and Macon county, Gen. Oglesby gave all present a hearty welcome, inviting all old soldiers to make their way to Textile Hall, where all would be well fed. Farmers and citizens distributed themselves over the grounds, and those who had not satisfied nature's demand, opened their umbrellas or made a raid on the lunch rooms.

Fully 2,000 old soldiers filed into "the mess room," and ate of the good things that had been so generously donated by our citizens. All ate standing and drank their coffee from tin cups just as they did in the army. By the wise foresight of the subsistence committee there was enough and to spare—none going away hungry. The "rush" was great, but the Grenadiers and Guards, with fixed bayonets, kept the crowd at a respectable distance, and everything moved along smoothly. The ladies in this department, whose names were given yesterday, deserve the greatest praise for valuable services rendered. SPEECHES, SINGING AND A GENERAL GOOD TIME.

At 2 p. m., the amphitheatre was packed with men, women and children, and around the speaker's stand gathered an innumerable host of veterans with upturned faces, waiting anxiously for the orators to give the American eagle a boost. The stand was occupied by prominent citizens, notable military officers, divines, the glee club, four surviving soldiers of the last war with Great Britain, and representatives of the press. Capt. Goodman's band occupied the judge's stand. At the northwest and southwest corners of the speaker's stand were battle torn flags and shattered staffs of the war for the union, bravely defended by the following Illinois volunteer regiments: 4th, 9th, 11th and 118th.

The following are the names of the old veterans referred to above: William Young, F. A. Seybolt, James Provost and Isaac Houck, sr. These old soldiers reside in this city, and are in good health. Gen. H. J. Oglesby, in full military general's uniform, called the vast assemblage to order, and announced the programme as he understood it. He sincerely regretted that Generals Sheridan, Sherman, Shields, McClelland and other invited generals were unavoidably absent, but he reckoned there were a few "fellows" here who would make it interesting for "the boys."

Music by the Decatur band. Rev. F. N. Ewing then introduced Rev. N. M. Baker, of Mt. Zion, formerly chaplain of the 116th, who offered a very impressive prayer. Song—"John Brown's body lies mouldering in the grave," by the glee club—solo by Dr. Bunstead.

GEN. OGLESBY, as the presiding officer, gave a cordial welcome to the assembled multitude. He directed his remarks more particularly to the soldiers of the late war. He honored them as he honored his country, and was glad to see so many of his old comrades present at this grand reunion. He referred in laudatory words to the past years fraught with so much importance to this free land of ours, and dwelt at some length upon the self-sacrificing spirit that had inspired the noble men of this country to brave the dangers of the terrible battle field, with only one purpose in view—that of preserving and perpetuating the union. To the mothers and widows of the fallen heroes the general spoke most feelingly, and there were but few dry eyes within the sound of his voice. He related several amusing incidents of the war, which were duly cheered by the old soldiers. Once more uttering hearty words of welcome, the general took his seat amid thundering applause.

Music by the band. Song by the glee club—"We are tending to-night on the old camp ground"—solo by G. F. Wood.

GEN. PALMER, the principal speaker of the day, was then introduced by Gen. Oglesby who paid a high tribute to his achievements while in command of the army of the Cumberland.

Gen. Palmer was received with loud applause, and spoke for forty-five minutes, making a splendid address. He prefaced his remarks by referring to the bravery and noble sacrifices of the American soldiers. Our sacrifices of to-day fade into insignificance in comparison to the soldiers' mothers and widows, and most of all, the soldier himself. In the dark days of the war, the very life of this great nation was threatened, and the speaker, like many others of that day, felt that he would willingly lay down his life if the ominous clouds could have been swept away. He thanked God that he had been permitted to live to see this day of peace and plenty, and our country at peace with all nations. And yet, after all that has been done, how little we deserve the great blessings which have been bestowed upon us. Thousands of brave men who went forth to battle have perished, but the memory of their sacrifices are still fresh in our minds. They have made their offering, and have passed away forever. May they never be forgotten so long as time shall last. Look abroad over this grand country, citizen soldiers, and behold how great has been our reward. The general stated that in May, 1861, he went into army an anti-slavery man. He believed that the black man could be made free by some undefined means, but he soon learned that the only way to break the shackles was to snatch them off, and the war freed the slave. The speaker's references to the memorable battles of Bull Run, Chickamauga and Missionary Ridge was very interesting, and elicited much laughter and applause from the old soldiers who gathered around the speaker's stand, elbowing each other in their endeavors to get nearer and exchange jokes with the old general. Following the war through to its finale, the speaker said Grant knocked the daylight out of Lee and the entire southern confederacy at Richmond, and the work was well done. (A voice—"That's so," and loud applause.) Gen. Palmer acknowledged it to be one of the most difficult things in the world to make a reunion speech. Gathered around were hundreds of old soldiers, and each had his recollections of the bloody days. The veterans of the wars of 1812 and 1840 were rapidly passing away, and soon the soldiers of 1861 will have been numbered with those who have gone before. He loved to attend the reunions, greeting his old comrades-in-arms, and receive attentions from the ladies in charge of the commissary department. He possessed a weakness for chickens, like all old soldiers. Here the general related several amusing incidents connected with foraging expeditions, and wound up by getting a good laugh on Gen. Oglesby who enjoyed the joke as heartily as Palmer. He wanted these reunions kept up so long as an old soldier lived. Meet together, shake hands, one with another, gather around the camp-fires, tell stories, and brag over what you have done to put down the rebellion. As the speaker grew older, the scenes and incidents of the war grew fresher and more vivid in his memory. Then let these reunions be kept up and cherished, year after year. They revive old memories, do us all good, and make us young again.

Gen. Oglesby proposed three cheers for Gen. Palmer, and they were given with a will.

GEN. J. C. SMITH, of Chicago, republican candidate for state treasurer, was next introduced by the presiding officer, who said he would make a bad speech. Gen. Smith commenced by saying that he had come to this reunion on an invitation, but he had not expected to look upon so vast an assemblage. It did him good to look into the faces of the old soldiers—many of whom had faced the enemy's guns with him. He made a splendid speech and was frequently interrupted by laughter and applause.

COL. BARNETT, of New York, recited "Sheridan's Ride," in a very creditable manner.

CLOSING EXERCISES. The band gave the multitude more fine music. Gen. Oglesby gave the boys a few parting words, and the assemblage joined in the grand chorus of the "Red, White and Blue"—solo by L. L. Ferris.

The benediction was pronounced by Rev. F. N. Ewing, and the people dispersed for home.

With the exception of several occurrences, recorded below, the reunion was a brilliant and decided success in every particular. Fifteen thousand people were on the grounds yesterday—a larger gathering than has assembled within the enclosure since the state fair was held here.

Capt. M. F. Kansas, the chief marshal, and the various committees did their work thoroughly, and they have the thanks of the entire community for their services.

RAD AND SERIOUS ACCIDENTS. While the exercises were in progress at the fair ground a salute was fired by the battery, which resulted in two serious accidents within a few minutes of each other. When the first occurred, Nathan Groover, of Illinois, was tending the rest, and James N. Wilson, who also resides here now, was running home the charge, and while doing so the piece went off, burning Groover's thumb badly and shattering Wilson's right arm so that it had to be amputated near the shoulder. The rain had sent whistling through the crowd in the direction of the amphitheatre, some parts of it being picked up near that point, but fortunately no person was hurt by the fugitive rod.

The wounded man was at once placed in a carriage and brought to the American House, corner of Wood and Water streets, where his arm was amputated, as above stated, by Dr. E. L. Walton, and above morning he was as comfortable as could be expected under the circumstances. Many rumors were about yesterday as to the cause of the accident, and this morning our reporter had an interview with Mr. Groover, who is tending the rest, and from him learned that his thumb was thrown from the rest by the force of the exploding powder in the gun, by which it was considerably burned. He says the gun was perfectly cold, and previous to ramming home the charge it was as thoroughly swabbed out as it could possibly be, and the accident was owing entirely to the rough and honey-combed condition of the piece inside, allowing grains of powder from the previous charge to remain in crevices where the swab could not reach them. He says the gun was entirely unfit for use.

After the excitement occasioned by this accident had subsided the firing was resumed with the same gun, with Jacob Black, of Mt. Zion, at the vent, and Theo. Penniwell, of Decatur, at the rammer, when at the third shot precisely a similar accident occurred, from the same cause and with a similar result, Penniwell's right hand being literally torn in shreds, and the arm nearly half way to the elbow—the arm was also broken above the elbow. In this case the thumb of the man at the vent was split open and so mutilated that amputation near the second joint was necessary, which operation was performed last evening by Dr. Bunstead.

Mr. Penniwell was taken at once to his residence, on Decatur street, where his arm was amputated just below the elbow by Drs W. J. Chenoweth and R. A. Small. The unfortunate man is comfortable this morning, and seems to have sustained no other injuries than those to his arm.

When the two accidents were known at the stand a collection was called, which resulted in raising between fifty and seventy-five dollars for the benefit of the victims.

A fact worthy of mention in connection with this accident is, that Nathan Groover, who was tending the vent when Wilson was hurt, and Black, who was tending it when Penniwell was hurt, and the last named gentleman, belonged to Battery G, Second Illinois, and were together at the battle of Kenesaw mountain, and that Black and Groover there saw Penniwell injured in a manner similar to the accident of yesterday, only he was not, of course, as badly hurt then as now, though he has always since suffered from the effects of the wound then received.

DECORATIONS AND ILLUMINATIONS. The very full account given yesterday and the day before of the decoration of buildings failed to embrace some few which escaped the notice of our reporters.

Among these was the residence of Mr. Cy. M. Imboden, on South Main street, which, with the grounds, was finely set out with flags and bunting, and several other houses on the same thoroughfare had one or more flags thrown to the breeze. The residence of Mr. R. A. Newell, on West North street, was decorated with a large fine flag and a bevy of smaller ones, while over the door was a large portrait of George Washington, entwined with a wreath of evergreen and small flags.

Mr. L. L. Haworth, on West William street, also made a very fine display of bunting and flags, and Mr. Young, on the same street, had a large flag hung over the roadway.

From the cupola on the residence of Senator Oglesby floated a large flag, and several other dwellings in that part of the city were similarly decorated.

In other parts of the city many residences were adorned with one or more flags, especially on the line of march gone over by the procession.

On the return of the crowd from the fair ground, about 8 o'clock, the town was again alive with people, and notwithstanding the chilling wind which prevailed the sidewalks were thronged.

In the evening several stores and private dwellings were illuminated. Among these was the grocery store of John Washburn, south of the Park, and the hardware store of Dennis & Hea was illuminated from the ground to the third story. On the corner, in the third story of H. A. Worth's building, brilliant lights in Kron's picture gallery made a beautiful display through the bunting at the windows. On Water street, Young Bros' grocery was illuminated with Chinese lanterns, as was also Ashby's furniture store.

On Merchant street a similar display was made at J. T. Hubbard's drug store. On East Main street Close & Griswold's hardware store, and also that of Morehouse & Wells, was beautifully illuminated from the basement up.

R. Liddle's two stores on South Water street were brilliantly and attractively illuminated with Chinese lanterns.

Curtis & Ewing and J. M. Stuckey made a fine display.

The hardware store of R. C. Crocker, on Water street, made a fine show of lights in the window, and that gentleman also illuminated his residence on West William street in very fine style. Martin's restaurant made a fine display of lights and fireworks, and the shoe store of W. F. Bush & Co. opposite, had a tasteful display of Chinese lanterns.

On South Main street, the residence of Mr. H. B. Leonard was finely illuminated, as was also that of Cy. M. Imboden. Other residences in different parts of the city may have been decorated or illuminated, or both, that have escaped the eye of our reporters, but none have been omitted with design.

At an early hour people began to retire from the streets, and by 10 o'clock the reunion was over.

But for the sad accidents which occurred the affair would have been one of the grandest and pleasantest that ever came off in Decatur. Good judges say that 15,000 is a low estimate of the number in attendance.

Ladies, get your dresses cut and made up in the latest fashion, at Mrs. Maceur WALAN's rooms over Dr. Mower's drug store, south of the park. Prompt work and reasonable prices. Oct. 12-14 w.

CUPID STILL AT WORK.

A Quiet Wedding on South Water St.

A very quiet wedding took place on South Water street last evening about 7:30 o'clock. Mr. Francis M. Heinlein, of Grove City, was united in marriage to Miss Altha M. Brodese, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Brodese. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. I. Emerson, in the presence of the relatives of the high contracting parties and a few near friends. After congratulations had been extended, the guests were ushered into the dining room, where an elegant repast awaited them.

The bride was the recipient of a fine array of presents, among which were the following:

Silver casket, from R. Liddle; rocking chair, from father of the bride; large linen table cloth, from Mrs. Geo. S. Priest; one dozen napkins from Mrs. D. Heaslip; marble-top centre-table, from friends; elegantly wrought chair tidy, from Miss Lulu McKenzle; silver casket, from Mr. and Mrs. Heinlein, parents of the bridegroom; half-dozen silver teaspoons from mother of the bride; same from Glat. Braden, brother of the bride; beautiful pin cushion and tidy, from Miss Anna McKenzle; silver spoons from S. Heinlein, brother of the bridegroom.

The happy couple leave to-day for Grove City, where they will settle down at once to the realities of life. The Republican joins with their many friends in wishing them a long and prosperous voyage through life.

Joy to the Afflicted.—One of our most eminent American Chemists has discovered a process whereby he obtains, in a palatable form, all the active medicinal properties of the East India Cathartica bark, without disturbing the irritant and inert matter. In this preparation the alkaloids are in their native combinations, and the same proportions of the ingredients are maintained as exist in the celebrated bark from the Nigherry Hills. This preparation is called "Cathartica's Pennyroyal," and is fast taking the place of Quinine and the so-called "Ague Cure," etc., in the market.
